Summary:

The Bible tells us to depend on God as our source. This has always been true; it is especially so right now, as the prophecies Jesus made concerning what will happen globally in these last days are coming to pass. Depending on God cannot be simply lip service anymore; our trust must be genuine. Never has our faith in Him been so important as in this time when so many people have chosen idols, such as money, for themselves. This is due to the prevalence of the spirit of mammon in the world, especially in America. As worldly systems continue to break down, world leaders prove untrustworthy, and fear increases, God will be the only One we will be able to rely on. When all earthly resources dry up and disappear, Christians will always have more than enough when we believe that God will provide everything we need.

Notes:

1. What we're seeing in the world right now is the fulfillment of biblical prophecies. This means we are very close to being caught up to heaven in the Rapture. Never has it been so critical to trust in Him.
2. God will be faithful to us and never leave us. In these end times, people will forget Him. God prophesied that people would replace love for Him with love for money.
3. When we pursue security and comfort over God's plans and purpose for our lives, we have a love of money; for Christians, money should be attracted, not pursued.
4. The spirit of mammon is the attitude that man does not need God because we are self-sufficient; this is demonically influenced. Mammon wants to control us and take the place of God. We can either serve it or God.
5. Mammon directly contradicts God's Word; it lies and says it can give us what only God can give. The world gives great importance and significance to money, but God calls it little.
