Summary:

Our external environment operates completely opposite from God. Contrary to the world's monetary system based on money, God uses love as His currency. When Jesus came, He replaced the Law of Moses with God's law of love; as Christians, this is the law we must live by. Love transforms us and moves us from a place of sin and fear to a place of peace, joy, and hope; this is where the power of God is found. Paying the debt of love changes lives and releases the power to transform people into His image; committing ourselves to paying this debt we owe to others allows us to begin seeing the supernatural manifested through us.

Notes:

1. Heaven operates by the currency of love; God's law of love has replaced Mosaic Law. When God's law of love is in place, the things that the Law of Moses forbids won't even occur.
2. We owe a debt of love to everyone; operating in love shows the world what Jesus is like. Love is all-powerful; it turns us into the image of God, Himself.
3. Love should be the motivation for everything we do; it spurs us to acts of compassion.
4. Love is the only thing that can transform the unsaved world.
