Summary:

Grace will certainly be waiting for us when we get to heaven, but we can begin to experience it right now, in our everyday lives. In the physical realm, God's favor has made available to us every good thing we need in life; in the spiritual realm, it has also made us the righteousness of God. We receive grace as long as we stay humble and avoid pride. Genuine faith in His grace allows it to flow into our lives.

Notes:

1. What we do will never be enough to be right with God—we need the gift of grace.
2. The law reminds us of our sins; grace delivers us from them and makes us righteous. The law tells us all the things we can't do; grace tells us that we're redeemed, blameless, and the righteousness of God.
3. Privilege is having a special advantage; as believers, we're privileged. Grace is a privilege we don't deserve.
4. Apart from His grace, nothing can be accomplished for God.
5. We need to believe even when trials show up, because grace is much more powerful than persecution.
