Summary:

Although He was God in human form, Jesus came to earth and chose to be a humble servant. To genuinely serve others requires that we have the same attitude as Christ, who always put others first. When we guard against impure, selfish motives, we position ourselves for powerful service for the kingdom of God.

Notes:

1. Jesus' life was characterized by the quality of unselfish servanthood. If He hadn't served others, we wouldn't have redemption and reconciliation available to us now.
2. Everyone who follows Jesus must be willing to serve, regardless of what others think. Humble servanthood is the mark of spiritual maturity. Negative consequences will arise from selfish service.
3. There are hindrances to developing a servanthood mentality, such as the desire for status and the need to feel important, human strategies, a poor concept of our self-worth, and self-centered living.
